

Mike Zovath is one of the three founders of Answers in Genesis, the parent ministry of the Ark Encounter and popular Creation Museum. AiG was founded in 1993, and Zovath was the general manager in the early years. He became the VP of the Creation Museum, responsible for operational concepts, development, construction, and daily operations through the museum's first 18 months (2007-2008).

As Chief Action Officer for AiG, Zovath is now heading up the Ark Encounter project in Williamstown, Kentucky, currently working out of the Ark's massive design studio in Hebron, Kentucky. A retired infantry Lieutenant Colonel in the U.S. Army, he has over 38 years of leadership and operations management experience in the military, with Answers in Genesis, and with the Creation Museum.
