Jack Manilla is a smart, hard-working and successful businessman whose life took a dramatic turn at the age of 53 when he made the decision to put his personal ethics above corporate profits.

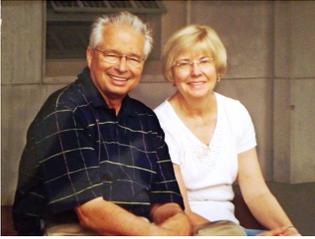

Born and raised in Western Pennsylvania, Jack was part of a blue-collar family that inspired him to dream big. He worked through college to pay his tuition and then rapidly climbed the ladder of success in the corporate world. Through his career, Jack was able to achieve the American Dream – multiple homes, boats, cars, country club memberships and expensive furnishings. Fame and fortune fed his ego until he lost it all.

Jack made a crucial decision to step down from his company after discovering its leadership was skimming money from employees. As a result, Jack found himself financially shipwrecked by a storm on the saltwater sea of life. He washed ashore at Safety Harbor, Florida, and he and his wife moved into a bungalow, known as the Pink House, located in the middle of a Florida orange grove.

It was in this tiny home that Jack spent a grueling 18 months working to rebuild his life. Despite many setbacks during that season, Jack began to learn valuable lessons of humility, love, maturity and the importance of relationships. Ultimately, it was when he gave up control of his life and turned it over to God, that he finally attained personal peace and professional success.

Through Secrets of the Pink House, Jack shares valuable lessons of how to live a life of great purpose through a deeper relationship with God, while intimately sharing the great highs and deep lows of his life's journey.

Jack and his wife Paula now live in Jacksonville, Florida, where they successfully run Portofino Pools that has become a well-known name in the industry. Together, their children include Jackie, John, Paul and Brad. Jack and Paula also enjoy being grandparents and great grandparents.
